ABOUT ASM

The American Society of Mammalogists was established in 1919 to promote the study of mammals.

The ASM is currently composed of ~2,500 members, many of whom are professional scientists. Members have always had a strong interest in the public good - providing information for public policy, natural resources management, conservation, and education.

Publications & Image Library

The ASM produces several high quality, peer-reviewed publications:

Journal of Mammalogy

Mammalian Species

Special Publications

and maintains a Mammal Images Library.

Annual meetings

The ASM organizes an annual meeting where researchers studying mammalogy from a variety of perspectives can share new information and network with others with similar & complementary interests.

Student-centered activities and professional development opportunities are a prominent part of the annual meeting. Student members have multiple opportunities to participate in committee meetings and society business at the meeting.

Scholarships & Awards

The ASM is proud to foster the next generation of mammalogists through a number of student and international programs - including:

- Graduate & Undergraduate Student Honoraria
- Grants-in-Aid of Research
- Travel Awards
- Research Fellowships
- Workshops

Scientific Contributions

- development of taxonomic guides for care and use of wild mammals in research;
- promotion of their adoption by granting and regulating agencies;
- review of mammalian taxonomy and updates in Mammal Species of the World;
- review & accreditation of scientific collections;
- position papers, letters, and resolutions on important mammalogical issues.

“There are some who can live without wild things and some who cannot.”
-Aldo Leopold
former member of ASM
